A DAY of fun activities at a Stewartry wildlife park raised £250 to help one of the world's cutest endangered species.

Galloway Wildlife Conservation Park, near Kirkcudbright, took part in International Red Panda Day on Saturday.

It is thought there are just 2500 red pandas alive in their native habitat on the China-Nepal border and in the Western Himalayas.

Wildlife-loving children took part in activities including mask making, jigsaw puzzles and Pandorigami, with the funds raised going towards supporting red panda conservation.

Thanks go to all who supported the event.
